Queen of Hearts to benefit Lied Discovery Children's Museum

Remarkable Southern Nevadans to be honored February 2 at Crystals at CityCenter

January 6, 2012 – LAS VEGAS – Lied Discovery Children's Museum will proudly present the inaugural Queen of Hearts event on February 2 at Crystals at CityCenter.

Queen of Hearts honors 10 remarkable females: one national figure, eight local community leaders and one child "queen in the making" for their selfless giving of time, talent, resources and leadership. The 2012 Queen of Hearts honorees are: Julie Murray (national), Ellie Smith (queen in the making), Michelle Ditondo, Mayor Carolyn Goodman, Robin Greenspun, Joan Lapan, Oleksandra Ruffin, Sonja Saltman, Dee Snyder, and Lindy Schumacher.

Queen of Hearts, to be held from 6 to 9 p.m. on Thursday, February 2 at Crystals at CityCenter, will feature Clint Holmes as master of ceremonies and light fare and wine provided by Social House and Southern Wine & Spirits. The event is sponsored by Crystals at CityCenter, Encore Productions, Vegas/Rated Magazine, and Southern Wine & Spirits with proceeds benefiting Lied Discovery Children's Museum. For tickets and more information, visit www.LDCM.org/QueenOfHearts or call (702) 382-3445.

For 21 years, Lied Discovery Children's Museum has been Las Vegas' favorite family fun and education destination. Located at 833 Las Vegas Blvd. North in downtown Las Vegas, the museum features more than 100 interactive exhibits based on science, art and culture for children and families. In late 2012, the museum will relocate and become the all-new DISCOVERY Children's Museum at the Donald W. Reynolds Discovery Center in Symphony Park. For more information, visit www.LDCM.org or call (702) 382-3445.
